Education policies, such as expanding tax credit scholarships, creating a school-based grading system, and establishing scholarships for low-income students, garner widespread support among registered voters statewide.

Thinking about K–12 education in Pennsylvania... Below is a series of different ideas and proposals people are talking about in Pennsylvania. After you read each one, please indicate if you support or oppose that proposal.

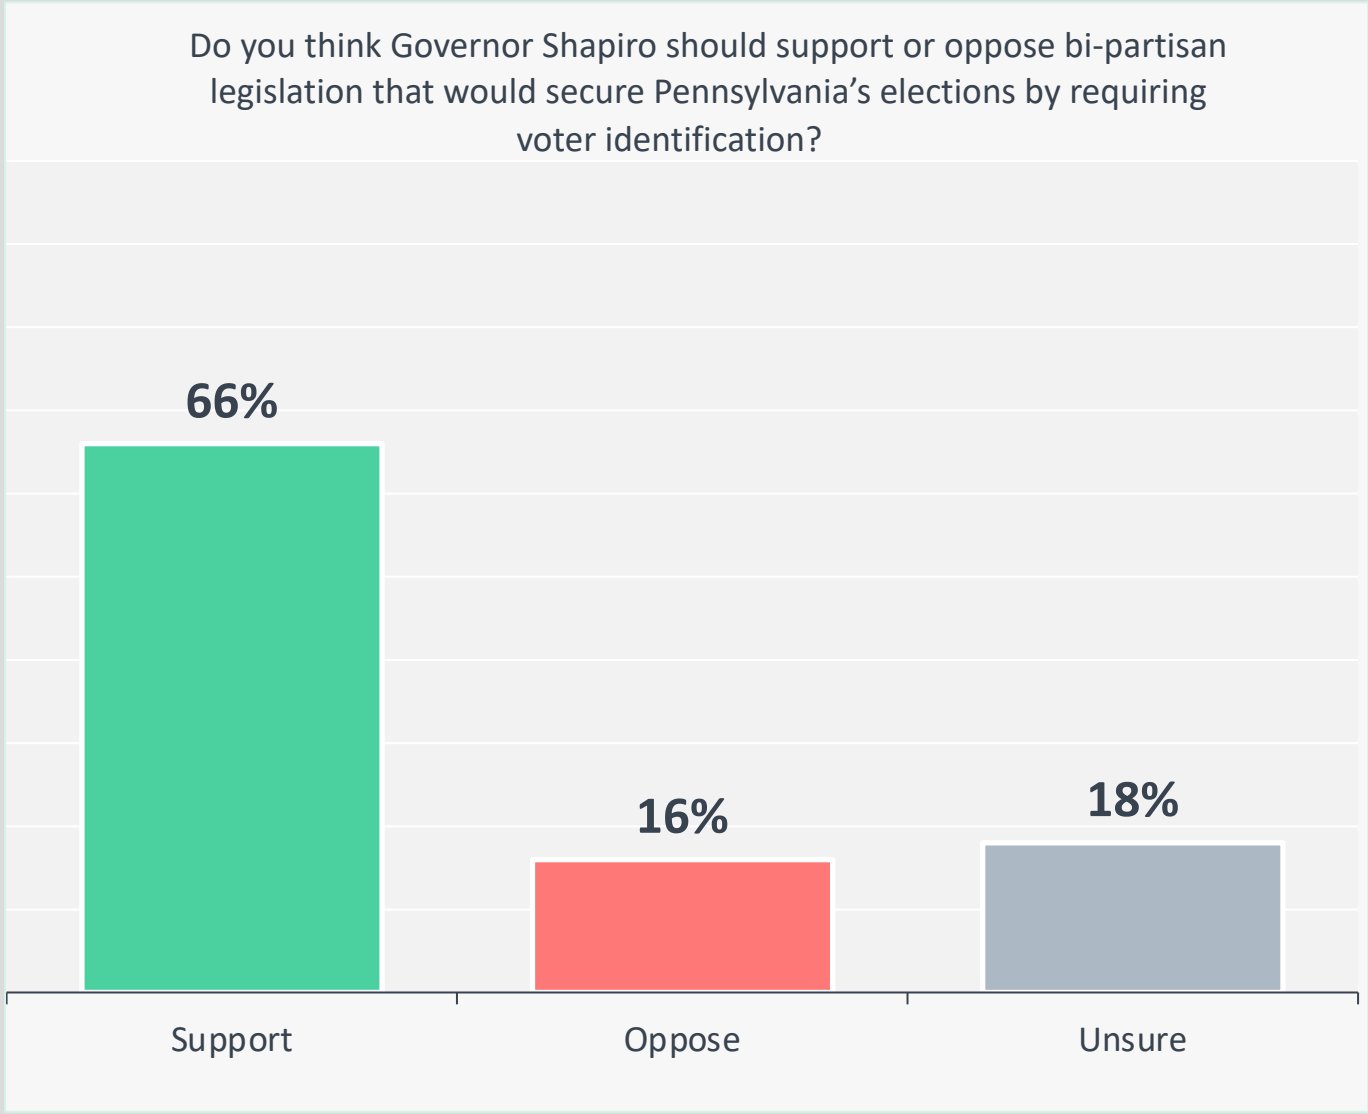

Policy	Total Support	Total Oppose	Differential
→ Expanding tax credit scholarships, which allow businesses to donate money to nonprofit organizations that provide scholarships to low-income and middle-income children in Pennsylvania to attend pre-kindergarten or K–12 private school.	73%	18%	55%
→ Creating an A through F grading system that would give every one of Pennsylvania's K–12 schools a grade based on factors including state achievement, learning gains in assessment, scores, and graduation rates.	72%	17%	55%
→ Establishing scholarships for low-income students in Pennsylvania's worst performing (bottom 15%) schools that would help pay for tuition to another k-12 school.	64%	26%	38%
Establishing an independent authorizer for charter schools, such as a state board or universities, which would approve and renew charter schools; rather than the current system in which only school districts can approve charter schools.	57%	22%	35%
Expanding access to charter schools so that all Pennsylvania children on the waiting list (at least 40,000 statewide) would be allowed to attend a charter school.	61%	28%	33%
→ Adopting a year-round school calendar that still allows for 180 days of instruction, while reducing the summer break and allocating more frequent breaks throughout the school year.	45%	46%	-1%
→ Cutting state funding for cyber charter schools by 40% per student.	35%	52%	-17%

By a staggering 49-point margin, voters agree that Governor Shapiro should honor the bipartisan deal he made with the State Senate to support scholarships for children attending the worst performing schools.

Shapiro's Bipartisan Support

- Over 9-in-10 registered voters statewide believe that leaders in Pennsylvania need to come together and pass a budget agreement that is bipartisan.
- By a 49-point margin, voters agree that Governor Shapiro should implement the bipartisan deal he made with the State Senate to support scholarships for children attending the worst performing schools.
- The governor's education policies such as expanding tax credit scholarships, and establishing scholarships for low-income students garner widespread support among registered voters statewide.

Electoral Recap

The Bellwether Commonwealth

- If the 2024 Presidential elections were held today, the race would be too close to call for residents of Pennsylvania. (Generic ballot inside the MoE)
 - Registered voters have a growing concern about electing either Trump or Biden
- For PA's Senate race, Bob Casey Jr. garners similar amounts of support as potential Republican challengers, with a plurality of voters unsure or still looking for candidate options.
- Regarding congressional representation, by a narrow margin, respondents believe the best candidate to represent them would be a Democrat, though believe the Republican party's policies are better for the economy.
- On the judicial front, Pennsylvania's Supreme Court election is within 6 points, with still over 1-in-5 registered voters unsure how they would vote.

Policy Wins for Pennsylvania: By the Numbers

Support Among Registered Voters

- 92% want leaders in Pennsylvania of all political parties to come together and pass a budget agreement that is bipartisan.
- 74% support expanding tax credit scholarships, which allow businesses to donate money to nonprofit organizations that provide scholarships to low-income and middle-income children in Pennsylvania to attend pre-kindergarten or K–12 private school.
- 72% support creating an A through F grading system that would give every one of Pennsylvania's K–12 schools a grade based on factors including state achievement, learning gains in assessment, scores, and graduation rates.
- 66% want Governor Shapiro to support bipartisan legislation that would secure Pennsylvania's elections by requiring voter identification.
- 64% would like the state to establish scholarships for low-income students in Pennsylvania's worst performing (bottom 15%) schools that would help pay for tuition to another k-12 school.
- 62% want Governor Shapiro to honor his bipartisan deal with the State Senate to support scholarships for children attending the state's worst performing schools.
